Huis Bergsig is well-known for its very traditional South African "menu" prepared and served by volunteers (with much help from the management and staff), and all made possible by generous donations from the community. Come and enjoy a traditional potjiekos lunch, excellent valley wines, bazaar puddings, the best pancakes in the valley, a bazaar table laden with delightful baked goodies, jams, preserves, chutneys and fresh fruit and vegetables at give-away prices. The tea garden and tea-table, and crafts made by residents and donors are beautifully presented on the lawns of the home. This bazaar really depicts Huis Bergsig's motto of "holding the hands of our senior citizens for a brighter future".

THE VILLAGE MARKET IN RIEBEEK WEST

Visit the Village Market on Saturday only and experience the unique way in which locals catch up and visitors make friends ... This is a true village market offering handmade and home-grown crafts and foods run on a charity basis, with the Riebeek Valley Trauma Centre being the worthy beneficiary.

Fresh breads and farm butter, a delicious variety of foods ranging from English pork pies to African fusion, Indian cuisine to traditional South African foods all created from this fruitful valley, together with plants, herbs, pesto's, an outstanding organic garden vegetable offering and a variety of farm-fresh produce, make up some of the classic stalls.
